

... Smart Natural Products

Fit for the future

Based in the charming natural environment of the Steigerwald forest, we have developed into one of the leading business enterprises and a key factor in the economic and commercial life of Germany's Lower Franconia region.

Our activities are focused on the production of natural health products such as tea varieties, spices and cosmetics.

In this role, we see ourselves as service providers for our customers in the pharmaceutical and food industries as well as the commercial sector.

Now and in the future.

People and nature

More and more people are switching their personal way of life to a natural one. The result is that natural health products, medicinal and herbal teas, high-quality spices and cosmetics featuring natural constituents have become exceptionally popular among consumers – a fact reflected in the extensive offerings of such products in grocery stores, chemist's and supermarkets.

Founded in 1982, Abtswinder Naturheilmittel GmbH & Co. KG specializes in the production of herbal remedies for self-medication and the manufacture of foods and cosmetics on a natural basis. Our maxims are good service, expert advice and trust. As a leading producer of natural products, we are aware of and take very seriously our responsibility towards people and nature – and attach great priority to ensuring and maintaining optimal product safety and quality. That is something very much appreciated and valued by our business partners and, ultimately, the consumers.

Abtswinder Naturheilmittel

Sensitive handling of natural products

Irrespective of whether we're talking about medicinal herbs, teas, spices or cosmetics – we take our obligation towards consumers extremely seriously – from the cultivation process right through to production.

After all, attractive appearance, taste and purity are – more than ever – key selling points.

Our extensive selection of raw materials enables us to react swiftly and cost-effectively to individual customer needs and requirements. Regardless of whether you order several hundred thousand units or just a couple of hundred.

Our Products: basis for successful private labels

Our private brand range embraces traditional as well as new products. Besides the high-quality base materials make for a high degree of acceptance in the trade and among consumers.

The fact that we gather information on new developments and findings continuously and early on means we can provide you with solution-oriented advice tailored to your specific needs and requirements. Various packaging forms and materials as well as professional consulting are the basis for your successful private label products.

Our employees are your potential

As partners to and for our customers, our service extends well beyond the production process itself, and you can rely on us to respond to your wishes promptly and reliably.

Whether it's filling small quantities, product tasting, production, individual label printing or on-schedule dispatch that's involved – our motivated and experienced team will accomplish it for you. And because we're never content to rest on our laurels, we invest continuously in development, further training and technology.

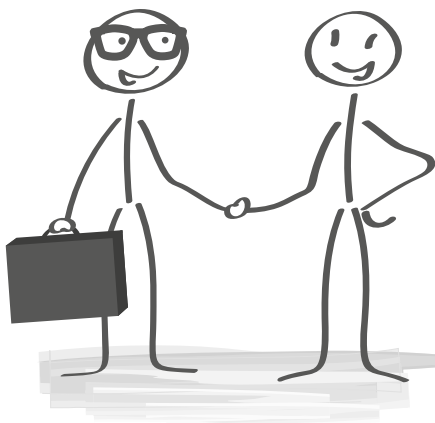

That's the key prerequisite for innovations which will be in demand in the markets no later than tomorrow.
